Pathways to Manufacturing Careers

Welding, Machining, or Mechatronics

FREE college preparation course to get you on the FastTRAC to a rewarding career in this high-demand field!

FastTRAC

is a free program that prepares students for college success in just 6 weeks! Brush up your reading, math or computer skills while exploring exciting manufacturing careers available in the region. Make connections with area manufacturers and Workforce Centers as you develop a plan for your future.

After the successful completion of the 6-week bridge, you will be ready to enroll in South Central College's manufacturing core courses. Offered during the summer and fall of 2015, these courses prepare students to take the Manufacturing Skills Standards Council (MSSC) Certified Production Technician assessments resulting in a nationally-recognized industry credential. They are also the first step in South Central College's Advanced Manufacturing pathways for Welding, Computer Integrated Machining, and Mechatronics. Students may qualify for additional resources, scholarships, or academic assistance as they enroll in these exciting pathways.
